

Homework 6: Reflection

Related to Ethics, recognizing data privacy and security is important components to working with the dataset. Depending on my position in the company, promoting a culture that safeguards the dataset we are working on, ensuring appropriate access level and even getting an audit of the process we have in place to reduce misuse and unauthorized access internally and externally.

In my opinion, addressing inequity involves recognizing that all datasets have biases, this will help appropriate use of the results recognizing their limits